

Prize dispensing game with huge rotating display featuring 6 prizes.

When the game starts each of the six LED displays around the centre light up with values needed to win a prize.

Players strike the target with the mallet to spin the arm. For each spin of the arm the players score increases by one and is displayed in the larger LED in the centre.

When the arm comes to a stop the player wins a prize if their score matches any of the six prize values displayed around the centre. The prize with the matching value is dispensed from the bottom of the machine.

In between games the prize values and positions change.
