Namco's patented software technology analyzes your driving style and accurately mimics it when you register it to be a "ghost" driver for future races. When your car/profile gets placed as an "opponent" for other drivers, how you drive is accurately replicated so they are practically racing against you

We also wanted to emphasize the social networking aspect of this driver. When you race the same people over and over again, the software will recognize these people as your friends through the profile PIN system. In an occasion where you race alone against the "ghost" cars, your friend's "ghost" car will be placed as one of your opponents.
